USING GRAPHIC NOVELS WITH CHILDREN

A Guide for Teachers

Definition

A graphic novel is a combination of words and images that form a story. It is presented in the form of a book. It consists of dialogues shown in balloons that enable learners to read simple and short texts.

A graphic novel can be an ideal tool for pupils to learn the language. This is because it consists of several unique elements:

- Linear narrative as found in short stories and novels
- Illustrations and images as found in picture books
- Dialogues as found in plays and poetry

Why do we use graphic novels?

Graphic novels can be used in the primary schools for the following reasons:

- Attract pupils' interest to read especially the reluctant readers
- Consist of rich and complex plots which can attract advanced readers
- Colourful graphics in the form of pictures that can attract young pupils
- Help pupils who are struggling with the language as the illustration provides contextual clues to the meaning of the words/sentences
- Expose pupils to literary elements through visual and words
Visual Features of Graphic Novels

Graphic novels consist of various features which one needs to know. These features are elaborated below.

1. Splash Page:

   It is a full page illustration which opens and introduces a story. It can also be used to indicate suspense. The splash page usually consists of large, dominant visuals and bold print that function as an attention grabber among young learners.

2. Frames/Panels:

Graphic novels use frames and panels to illustrate the story. The visuals on one page are captured in a big frame. Within a frame, one may find few panels. The panels are boxes that contain each of the scenes. The panels can be arranged on the page in a linear fashion as shown in Figure 1 or in a non-linear fashion as shown in Figure 2.

3. Font Sizes, Colours, and Styles:

The texts in graphic novels are differentiated using various font sizes. For example, bigger font size is used to indicate dramatic effect. Different colours are used to differentiate between the narratives and the dialogues. Words can also be used to display sounds and emphasise the action taking place in the story. The use of onomatopoeia in graphic novel is indicated through the use of styles. For example, ‘fwoosh’ (refer to Figure 3) is written in such a way to follow the movement of the swinging of the torch.

4. Gutters:

The space between the panels is called the gutter. As readers move from panel to panel, they have to make inferences and draw conclusions as to what happens in the gutter—in that tiny space between each scene. The authors use the gutters to move along the action in scenes, to show the passage of time, or to make changes in locations.
5. Word Balloons:

Word balloons are speech bubbles found in graphic novels. These can be in different shapes and sizes throughout the novel. Word balloons indicate the words uttered by various characters in the story.

Chapter 1
Mowgli, a little boy, takes refuge in a cave. He is adopted and brought up by two wolves, Father Wolf and Mother Wolf. Shere Khan, the tiger has killed Mowgli’s parents and vows to kill Mowgli. Mother Wolf feels the need to keep Mowgli in the pack to protect him. At Council Rock, Akela asks if anyone will speak for Mowgli. Baloo, the bear and Bagheera, the panther suggest that Mowgli should stay.

Chapter 2
Mowgli’s new ‘parents’, Baloo, the bear and Bagheera, the panther, teach Mowgli the ways of the jungle and the laws and customs of the Jungle Folk. Mowgli develops a strong bond with his new friends, Baloo and Bagheera. He grows up into a strong young man. One day, Mowgli is kidnapped by a group of monkeys and taken to the Cold Lairs. Baloo and Bagheera seek help from Kaa, the rock snake and together, they manage to save Mowgli from the monkeys.

Chapter 3
Two wolf-friends warn Mowgli that Shere Khan still wants to kill him. Shere Khan tries to poison the young wolves’ minds against Mowgli and Akela. Mowgli goes to the village and steals the Red Flower (a vessel containing fire). He lights a torch, warns the other young wolves not to listen to Shere Khan and accepts Akela as their leader. Shere Khan runs away into the jungle. Mowgli also leaves for the village.
Chapter 4
In the village, a woman named Messua claims that Mowgli is her son. Mowgli is very happy. In the village, he learns to live like a human. Baloo and Bagheera visit Mowgli to tell him that Shere Khan is hiding nearby. Together, they trap Shere Khan and kill him. Mowgli skins Shere Khan’s hide and lays it on the Council Rock. The villagers chase Mowgli out of the village because they think that Mowgli is a wolf-child and is dangerous. Mowgli then returns to the jungle.

Chapter 5
Mowgli and his close friends share many adventures. One day, the Jungle Folk is attacked by a pack of dholes/red dogs. Mowgli quickly seeks advice from Kaa in his attempt to save the Jungle Folk. Mowgli and Kaa lead the dholes towards the homes of the Little People. The Little People attack the dholes and kill them. After defeating the dholes, Akela dies. Before dying, Akela tells Mowgli that one day, Mowgli will leave the jungle because he does not belong there. Mowgli ponders on Akela’s last words but he is not ready at that moment.

The Jungle Book takes place in the jungles of India and in a small village.

A boy named Mowgli is raised by a pack of wolves after his parents are killed by the evil tiger, Shere Khan.

Mowgli is kidnapped by some monkeys and is taken to Cold Lairs. He is later saved by Baloo and Bagheera with the help from Kaa.

Shere Khan turns the young wolves against Mowgli and Akela. Mowgli warns the young wolves to accept Akela as the leader.

Mowgli heads to the village and is raised as a human by Messua, who claims that Mowgli is her son, Nanthoo.

The wolves meet Mowgli in the village and tell him that Shere Khan is hiding and waiting to kill him. They trap Shere Khan and Mowgli kills him.

The villagers are threatened by Mowgli's strength so they drive him out of the village. Mowgli returns to the jungle.

A pack of Red Dogs heads to the jungle. Mowgli and Kaa lure them to the Little People's home where most of them are stung to death.

The remaining dogs battle with Mowgli and the wolves. All the dogs are killed and Akela is badly hurt.

Akela thanks Mowgli for his deeds, but tells him that the jungle is not his place. Mowgli is undecided. Mowgli decides to stay in the jungle for the time being.

2. Ask pupils to guess the name of the boy in the cover (Let the pupils guess and give a suitable name).
3. Discuss on the facial expression of the boy.
   - Is he happy? Sad? Angry/furious? Why do you think so?
   - Show me your happy/ angry/sad face.
4. Talk about the attire.
   - What is he wearing? Why? Who do you think wears clothes like this? Would you wear this?
5. Talk about the resemblance of the character with other characters.
   - Name other characters which look like him. (Suggested answers: Tarzan, George of the Jungle, Flintstones)
6. Talk about the font size and the title of the book.
   - Look at the title and tell me what comes to your mind?
   - What can you find in the jungle?
   - What is the difference between a jungle and a forest?

*Teacher can discuss the font size of the title of the book by focusing on these aspects:
   - Big and small alphabets represent the big and small trees in the jungle.
   - The shapes of the alphabets represent the trees.

7. Ask pupils for other books, movies, cartoons or anime with the same words used for the title (E.g.: George of the Jungle).

   *Note: Teacher shows pictures for those who are not familiar with the examples provided.

8. Get pupils to predict the story from the title.
   - From the word 'jungle', what do you think is the story about?
   - What other characters do you think you can find in this story?
   - Where do you think the story took place?

9. Elicit pupils' responses on the posture of the boy as seen on the cover page.
   - Look at how the boy is standing.
   - Why is he standing this way?
   - What can you tell about his character?
10. Ask pupils to complete the diagram based on the cover of the book.

Text:

The jungle is so peaceful and occasionally you can hear the hooting of the owl, ‘hoot, ‘hoot’ (....), the tiger(....), wolf (....) bear(...) monkey (...) and the snake (...).

The ground is so smooth with fine pebbles. The walk is easy. You can feel the cool breeze brushing onto your face. Nearby, the water in the river is rushing down the stream.

Soon, the ground is hard. There are roots and stumps all over. You need to be careful or you may fall and hurt yourself. You can hear the birds (.....) chirping and whistling happily, the tiger (...), the bear (...) and the monkey (....).

The path into the jungle is without any incident until a sound of the hungry wolf (...) is heard. All the animals become very quiet, wondering if the monkey (...) dares to appear into the path of the hungry wolf (...).

Suddenly, the grizzly bear (...) pounds his heavy feet on the ground and the whole jungle starts to tremble. The sound gets louder and louder. The snake (...) realises that the bear (...) is coming closer. The snake (...) rushes to hide behind some thick bushes. From the chatter of the monkeys (...) you can sense the fear that has been created by the bear.

There! There! The worse is about to happen! The tiger’s roar (...) is deafening. He has a disturbed sleep. All the animals (.....) run behind tree trunks and bushes to hide.

Hiss! The snake (...) projects his long head and sensing his environment he too rushes into a thick bush.

(The children scream and return to the seats.)
Steps:

1. Pupils work in groups of 4 to 5.
2. Each group is given an envelope containing strips of the synopsis of all five chapters of the story. (Each strip is numbered according to the chapters and folded to ensure that pupils do not read all strips before predicting).
3. In respective groups, one pupil will read the first strip to his/her group members.
4. Then, they discuss and predict what they think would happen next.
5. Pupils write their prediction at the back of the first strip.
6. Another pupil reads the second strip and the members listen.
7. Pupils then compare what is read with their prediction.
8. Steps 3 to 7 are repeated with the following strips until the end of the story.
9. One representative may read out the first strip and continue with their predictions until the end of the story.

Steps:

1. Play recording of dialogues of 5 different characters from the story (or teacher can read out the dialogues).
2. After playing/reading each of the dialogues, get pupils to guess the character.
3. After guessing, paste/display the picture of the character and discuss briefly about the characters with the pupils. Ask questions to get them to respond.

   E.g.: 1. Who is this? (pointing at the picture)
          2. Do you like this character? Why?
          3. Can you describe this character in one word?

4. After discussion, distribute two report cards and two sets of Label 1 to each pupil.
5. Tell pupils that one report card is for the character they like and the other is for the character they dislike.
6. Explain to pupils that they need to paste a grade (A, B or C) for each of the two characters. (A being the best character, B representing both good and bad character and C for bad character.)
7. Then, pupils write two adjectives to describe each character.

MIRROR EXERCISE

Steps:

1. Pupils work in pairs, where one would be pupil A and the other is pupil B.
2. Pupil A is given a sentence strip consisting of one of the scenes found in the story.
   e.g.:
   - The monkeys carry Mowgli fiercely to the secret place.
   - Mowgli fights with Shere Khan.
   - Monkeys running away from Kaa the snake.
   - Dholes screaming in pain after being stung by little people.
3. Pupil A is required to read the sentence strip and identify the emotion (feeling/expression) of the character (e.g. Monkeys – fierce, Dholes – in pain).
4. Pupil A will perform the facial expression and pupil B will follow the expression made by pupil A (mirror).

SAMPLE SCRIPT (CHAPTER 5: RED DOG)

NARRATOR: Mowgli continued living in the jungle with his four wolf brothers.

MOWGLI: Come my brothers. I will teach you how to survive in the jungle.

YOUNG WOLVES: Yeh.. fun, fun, fun in the jungle.

NARRATOR: Soon the young wolves were experts in hunting. Sometimes they were also joined by Bagheera and Baloo. Together they became fearless hunters.

BAGHEERA: Mowgli, I see a rabbit behind the rock. Let’s duck in.

MOWGLI: Drat.... missed it. There it is. Come on quick. This way.

YOUNG WOLF 1: Got it, Big Brother. Yes! Yes!

MOWGLI: Well done, I am so proud of you. Bagheera, Baloo, see how my brothers are so skilful. They will be the most powerful animals in this jungle kingdom.

NARRATOR: Mowgli grows up to be a strong man. Mother Wolf is as proud of him as Mowgli is also a good brother to four young cubs. But one day...

MOTHER WOLF: Mowgli, I will not stay long anymore. Father Wolf is calling me. I want you to take good care of your brothers. They are young. Protect them from hunters and the winds of death. Promise me?

MOWGLI: Mother, you make me really sad. But I promise, my brothers will always be my eyes. I will never leave them. Just as how you protected me when I came to you, helpless and weak.

NARRATOR: With that Mother Wolf dies. Mowgli is deeply saddened. He leaves her in a cave and rolls a big stone to cover the mouth of the cave. Many years later.....

WONTOLLA: Pheeral.... Pheeral
MOWGLI: Who sounded that? Let's head to the Council Rock.

NARRATOR: All the animals head to the Council Rock. Won-Tolla, one of the young wolves is badly hurt and bleeding.

WONTOLLA: The red dogs are on their way here. They did this to me. They are trailing me here. I came to warn you. Hide somewhere, Mowgli so that they will not find you. The others can stay and fight with them.

MOWGLI: What! Over my dead body. I will never leave my family here. I must fight the enemy. My knife will be a fang for this pack.

WON-TOLLA: It's not easy, Mowgli. There are about two hundred dogs trailing me here. It's impossible.

MOWGLI: I know what to do. I will go south and see what's happening.

NARRATOR: Mowgli ran towards the river. He met Kaa, the snake.

KAA: Where are you heading, Mowgli?

MOWGLI: Didn't you hear the pheeal, the dead shriek a while ago? Won-Tolla has been attacked by the red dogs. He is badly injured and he came to tell us. They are on their way now. We must fight them.

KAA: I have an idea. You must lead the dogs to where the Little People live. This will get the dogs to be swarmed and stung by the Little People.

NARRATOR: They both swim to the place of Death, where the dangerous hornets live. The hornets sting and kill anyone who pass their homes or disturb them.

MOWGLI: Thank you, Kaa. You are very wise. Now go back to the jungle. Tell my pack to wait for me by the river.

NARRATOR: Kaa returns to the jungle. Mowgli swims to the other side, passing the Little People’s homes very carefully. He finds a tall tree and climbs it. From there he sees the dogs. He calls them to the tree.

MOWGLI: Go home you cowards!

RED DOG LEADER: Come down, you weak bones. Your jungle is ours now.

NARRATOR: Mowgli annoyed them further. This angered the leader and he nearly caught Mowgli’s leg. But Mowgli was quicker and managed to catch the dog and cut off his tail.

MOWGLI: Ha ha. Go home and cry that a human has done this to you. You know who’s stronger now.

NARRATOR: This made them even angrier. By evening, Mowgli left the tree and started towards the Little People’s homes. With such speed, he swung from tree to tree and even sprinted on the ground. He was too fast for the dogs.

MOWGLI: The Little People’s Homes are here. I must jump carefully without disturbing them.

NARRATOR: But as he jumps over, some stones fall on the homes. The hornets charge and sting the dogs. But Mowgli manages to jump into the river and swim away.

DOGS: Ouch, eeow. Oh Oh. My body aches. What are these? Hornets... aargh. Quick escape! Leave our weak friends here.

NARRATOR: Many of the dogs are dead. Some are too weak to continue the fight. The remaining few however, chase Mowgli. The dogs gather around Mowgli.

RED DOG: The Hunt is over. Time for us to tear your flesh off, human!

MOWGLI: You are wrong. The hunt is about to begin. My brothers are waiting for you.
NARRATOR: The dogs are weak and tired but the wolves are well rested. They fight and howl all night. Akela is badly hurt. Mowgli goes to see him.

AKELA: Mowgli, I won’t last long. I cared for you. Now you have paid your gratitude. You must go now to be with your kind. Live among humans. You don’t belong here.

MOWGLI: No! I will never. I belong here. Akela! Akela?

Chief of the wolves : That is not possible. This is our hunting ground. We will be on guard.

Tabaqui : He is planning to hunt humans not animals.

Chief of the wolves : Really! I am surprised because hunting humans is against the jungle laws.

(They heard a sound coming from the long grasses. It was a young boy about 2-3 years old. He was lost.)

Chief of the wolves : Where are his parents?

Tabaqui : I think Shere Khan probably killed them.

Chief of the wolves : I have to save this boy-cub. I’ll take him to Akela and seek his advice. He will know what to do.

(Out of nowhere, Shere Khan appeared and demanded that the boy should be given to him. Chief of the wolves took the boy to his home in the cave.)

Shere Khan : Give me the man-cub!

Chief of the wolves : No.

Shere Khan : He is mine.
Chief of the wolves: No. Go away before you get hurt. I'll call the rest of the herd if you don't.

Shere Khan: I'll go for now, but I'll be back.

(Meanwhile, the boy was playing with the Chief of the wolves' children. His wife wanted to raise the boy as her own.)

Chief of the wolves: I'll bring the man-cub to Akela and seek his permission.

(At the Council Rock)

Chief of the wolves: Akela, I would like to seek your permission to keep this man-cub.

Akela: I'll agree if two of the other animal agree to it.

Baloo: I'll teach the man-cub the laws of the jungle.

Chief of the wolves: Anyone else?
